

The Juju Bead Heist

By Charles F.D. Egbert

It's Christmas Eve. Tony Valentine, P.I., finds out that the world-famous Juju Beads disappear on the very same day that Louie (the Rat) Moldino gets out of jail. No surprise, but enter a socialite with the phony French accent. How do the beads slip through Louie's fingers? Can Louie restrain Spook from bumping off Tony? Why is Moldino asking Mary about Calcutta? Why is Mary so nice after Moldino's boys swiss-cheesed her husband and dropped him in the river? Will local cop Jerry put Louie back in the slammer? Another shady character comes along with plenty of the green stuff, but no one understands him because he doesn't speak "English". Will Francine, Tony's neglected girl Friday, get her share? Will she be loyal to Tony when Louie promises to take her where it's warm and the sea is green? In this play, everyone's dreams come true... or do they? 7M/3W
