

The Wright Place

by Judith Pratt

Little girls like to play house, and grown women sometimes spend their lives trying to make those dream houses come true. That quest mires Lee and her mother Helen in the past in this play about the seductive nature of home and family.

The only house for Lee is her grandmother Martha's place, where she spent summers as a child. While waiting for that perfect home, Lee never chooses or commits to a home of her own. When Martha Wright dies and Helen decides to sell the Wright place, a convoluted family struggle begins. Meanwhile, Lee's best friend Diana goes on a lifelong search for the ideal house and family; a journey that takes her from a hippie farm to a suburban paradise, and from a traveling camper to a church shelter.

2 men / 5 women

ISBN #1-933159-87-1
JAC #2007-0005

$5.25

$3 S&H on single script orders.
For multiple copies, call for total with shipping.

Available from...
JAC Publishing & Promotions

ORDER NOW!

Online at www.jacpub.com

by calling 781-272-2066

Or by mail. Complete the information below and mail this form with your payment to: P.O. Box 88, Burlington, MA 01803

Name

Address

City, State Zip

Credit Card Number

Name on Card & Expiration Date

of Copies Requested